Acknowledgement of the law against animal abandonment

I understand that it is a crime in the state of Oregon to abandon a domesticated animal. It is a Class B Misdemeanor, Oregon Criminal Code ors.167.340. "Animal abandonment", as that term is used in the criminal statutes, means leaving an animal at any location without first ensuring that someone remains responsible for caring for that animal. This requirement includes making sure the animal is provided food, shelter and other basic necessities. Simply leaving an animal near an animal shelter, veterinary clinic or other type of shelter is not a defense to the crime of animal abandonment. This crime is punishable by imprisonment and/or fines.
